Notes to editors

Pure Wafer is a worldwide leader in the provision of 300mm wafer reclaim services. These services enable semiconductor manufacturers to gain further efficiencies through the increased re-use of silicon test wafers within their production processes.

The Company has an established track record, one of the world's most advanced wafer reclaim facilities, and has a blue "chip" customer base that includes some of the world's largest semiconductor manufacturers and independent foundries. As a business partner, Pure Wafer works with its customers to design and develop a service that delivers reclaimed wafers to the exact specifications and high standards required by today's leading semiconductor manufacturers.
